

Certain Solution Possible

Soviet's Shepilov Exhibits Confidence On Arriving for UN Suez Canal Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov, arriving today for the U.N. Security Council debate on the Suez Canal, declared he is "deeply convinced we shall be able to find a reasonable solution to the problems troubling us."

The Soviet diplomat said this could be achieved "through negotiations on a basis of equality and fairness, and by means of a correct combination of the interests of Egypt as a sovereign state, and the interests of all other states using the canal."

Shepilov and six other foreign ministers, including Egypt's Mahmoud Fawzi, will take part in the council debate opening Friday. Egypt is not a member of the 11-nation council but was invited to participate as an interested party.

Shepilov, in an airport statement, asserted that attempts were still being made to settle the Suez problem "from positions of strength."

"These attempts are caused by lack of understanding of the spirit of our times and of the renovation of the forms of social life that is in progress throughout the vast expanse of the East," he continued.

Private huddles were being held at the U.N. in advance of the Friday debate. Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and Koca Popovic of Yugoslavia were already on hand.

Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, Christian Pineau of France and Fawzi were expected during the day and Secretary of State Dulles by Friday or sooner.

Britain and France were preparing a resolution for the council calling for international control of the 103-mile waterway nationalized by Egypt July 26. They counted on U.S. support.

Yugoslavia and other nations were reported working for a compromise. The Soviet Union has backed Egypt in the canal dispute.

Lloyd and Pineau were to meet tonight at dinner with Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U.S. representative on the council.

A British spokesman said the resolution was on paper but that revisions still were being discussed. He confirmed published reports that the resolution would ask the council to recommend (1) that Egypt cooperate with canalizing countries in provisional arrangements to keep the waterway open to all nations and (2) negotiate a final settlement based on the majority proposals from the first London Suez conference.

Those proposals, backed by 18 of the 22 nations attending the mid-August parley, called for an international board linked with the U.N. to operate the canal. The plan was rejected by Egyptian President Nasser.

Any such British-French resolution faced the possibility of a Soviet veto in the council.

Western sources said the United States, Britain and France are determined to push for council endorsement of an international control plan.

Pennsylvania Is Preferred--

Adlai Keeps Trying, Even If New Jersey Is Doubtful

By JOSEPH DEAR

Adlai is out for votes under the clouding skies of Jersey, a state that seems beyond his reach just now.

Even his most ardent advisers concede that. But they're eyeing Pennsylvania with some confidence.

The Jersey picture rates the once over lightly, though, for it tells much about the Stevenson campaign.

First, Adlai pulled better crowds than he did four years ago but not much better. The crowds weren't impressive then, and they weren't impressive yesterday.

Not that all the Jersey politicians discount Stevenson's chances. One of the shrewdest, Dave Wilentz, feels "something" and says Adlai may be catching fire.

According to Wilentz, Ike won't save the show with angry speeches. The new Ike, he says, sounds like the old Nixon, and the people, he says, prefer an Ike who is above it all.

Crowds aren't the whole story, of course, and if Stevenson is catching, as Wilentz believes, other professionals will perk up. But at the moment, these gentlemen are chiefly concerned about their local states, which figure to make even if the national ticket doesn't.

Stevenson is doing his best to run on the coattails of his party, just as the Republicans are doing their best to run on Ike's coattails. At each stop, Stevenson speaks up for the local candidates, praises the party, and tries in every way to identify himself with it.

It wasn't quite that way four years ago. Stevenson's task then was to identify himself with the party while separating himself somewhat from Mr. Truman.

The Stevenson speaking technique has changed much. It goes with a thud before some audiences. It goes with a bang before others. The crowds at Fairleigh Dickinson University and at Morristown seemed enthusiastic. Jersey Republicans — there was a moment for checking with them when Stevenson took a breather after his Newark speech — are confident Ike will take the state. But they doubt they'll oust any Democratic congressmen. The reason for their confidence is simply stated: The Democrats won't produce a sufficient margin for Adlai in Hudson County. That's the Democratic stronghold. The organization in Jersey City gave Democratic Gov. Meyner a 70,000 majority three years ago, but Adlai only 7,000 in 1952.

Whether the Republicans are putting too much faith on the apathy of the Jersey City Democratic organization remains to be seen. The organization, which is now controlled by John Kenny, put up a fair show for Stevenson last night.

It was nothing like the old days when Boss Hague mobilized 50,000 for open air rallies. But it was a demonstration, and it cost money. That indicates interest.

Fact is, the Democratic professionals may put their shoulder behind the campaign if Stevenson's prospects brighten. As of now, most of them seem to think Adlai will be doing well if he halves his losing margin. That's not a bright picture.

But Stevenson is making a mighty effort himself. He exudes confidence. He drives himself fiercely — three hours of sleep per night is average. If the picture doesn't brighten, it won't be for want of trying.

Hocker Attends Coffee Session

Lon Hocker, Republican candidate for governor, told a group of City and County party leaders that "all the breaks are on our side" and "all the issues in our platform are right" at a coffee hour held at the Bothwell Hotel coffee shop this morning.

George Miller, GOP candidate for representative, told the group that emphasis should be placed on getting people registered from now until the closing date on Oct. 8.

Other GOP candidates attending the coffee hour were Ira DeJarnette, candidate for County Judge, eastern district, and George H. Miller, candidate for Co. Assessor.

Also at the meeting were W. D. Smith, county chairman; Mrs. Cleo Schumaker, city chairman, and a group of young Republicans who were wearing "I Like Ike" and Lon Hocker buttons.

Convicted Killer Wins At Least Two Months In Fight for Life

JEFFERSON CITY, (AP)—Rollie M. Laster, convicted prison riot killer, has gained at least two more months in his fight for life.

Today was to be the last day of a stay granted by the Missouri Supreme Court, putting off his execution in the gas chamber while his attorney appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

But the state got notice that the appeal has been filed so it extended the stay until Dec. 3. Another extension could be granted then if the appeal is still pending.

Laster and six other convicts were accused of slaying Walter Lee Donnell in his death row cell during the bloody state penitentiary riot Sept. 22, 1954. All were convicted but the other six got life sentences.

Three Smith-Cotton High School students, passengers in a Yellow Cab, were injured in a two-car collision at the intersection of Griessen Drive and New York, at the north city limits. The accident occurred about 8 a.m.

Injured were: Evelyn Jordan, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Jordan, Route 5, who suffered a fractured tibia of the right leg just below the knee, abrasions and bruises of the chest and right leg and body bruises. She was taken to the Woodland Hospital in an Ewing ambulance, where Dr. R. A. Enoch and Dr. Glenn A. Walker rendered treatment and took X-ray pictures.

Connie Welch, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Welch, Route 5, suffered a wrenched back and bruises. The Welch youngsters were taken to Bothwell Hospital in an Ewing ambulance, where Dr. Pete Siegel rendered medical treatment and had X-rays taken to learn if any fractures were suffered.

The Yellow Cab, a 1953 Ford sedan was driven west by Carl Powers, 48, Route 3, Sedalia, and the other car, a 1952 Ford sedan, was being driven south on New York by Miss Ardean M. Witthaus, 21.

The front end of the Witthaus automobile was smashed in and the right side of the Yellow Cab damaged. When they collided, the Yellow Cab spun around, the front end hitting a small ditch and the back end going into the ditch just as both right doors flew open.

The Jordan girl was thrown out of the vehicle into the ditch just ahead of the car, the Welch girl was partially thrown out of the car and dragged a short distance. The Welch boy was thrown against the windshield of the cab.

Both Miss Witthaus and Powers escaped injury.

The Witthaus car was towed away by the Bacon wrecker and the Yellow Cab towed to its garage by a wrecker from the Yellow Cab Co.

Optimist Club Presents Trophy To Outstanding Newspaper Boy

Kit Taylor, 13 years old, was presented the trophy as the outstanding little merchant of The Sedalia Democrat Co. Tuesday noon at the Optimist Club by the club president, Dr. C. J. Blach.

In observance of National Newspaper Week the Optimist Club honored the ten outstanding boys of the year voted by the circulation department of the paper. These were the top ten out of 110 boys.

Kit, a fine looking blond boy, won his honor and trophy through his courteous manner, his friendly smile and his extra effort to get the paper at the door of his customers. It was the many favorable remarks the company received about Kit from the subscribers on his route that brought about his selection. Kit lives at 1120 Wilkerson, is in the eighth grade at Smith-Cotton and began delivering The Sedalia Democrat on Dec. 8, 1955. He carries Quincy, Prospect and Grand from Main to Third, a total of 74 papers. He also received a certificate from the Inland Daily Press Association and lapel pin.

Four other boys received certificates and lapel pins for rating among the five highest. ### Donnelly Proclaims Newspaper Boy Day

He urged citizens to join in tribute to "our newspaperboys who are learning today to be responsible citizens of tomorrow."

Says GOP Has Done More For Farmer

HUNTLEY, Ill. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson, striking back sharply at critics, said today the Eisenhower administration has taken "more constructive action for the benefit of the family farm than has any previous administration in years."

"The facts reveal how utterly false and absurd are the charges that this administration is guilty of selling short our family farms," the secretary said in a speech prepared for the dedication of the Thor Research Center near here.

Equipment improvements have brought problems and changes to farms but they have not changed "our traditional system of family-operated farms," Benson said.

"I make this statement," he added, "because in recent weeks deliberately misleading, careless and irresponsible statements have been made about the attitude of this administration toward our family farms."

Benson did not mention them by name, but he obviously was referring to campaign statements by Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate, and Sen. Estes C. C. Stevenson's running mate.

Benson termed family farms the "backbone of American agriculture" and said he and all top members of the agriculture department staff were raised on such farms.

"Every program we have developed or recommended, every action we have taken in the Department of Agriculture in the last 3½ years — has been conscientiously and solely devoted to the welfare and best interests of farm families and all Americans," he said.

Air Force Plane Crash Kills Three

Globemaster Down At Charleston Base; Other Seven Injured

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP)—A C124 Globemaster based at Kelley Air Force Base crashed and burned today at the Charleston Air Force Base. Three of the 10 men aboard were killed.

The others were sped to the U.S. Naval Hospital here with undetermined injuries.

The Air Force said the huge plane, coming in from Bermuda, landed short on an instrument runway about 7:30 a.m. The plane apparently burst into flame after it hit and was consumed. A light fog covered the base at the time.

The Globemaster struck a short distance north of the base administration building.

The hospital said three of the crew were dead on arrival there. The hospital said one of the injured was in good condition. There was no immediate report on the others.

Names of all of the men were withheld until next of kin were notified.

A civilian employee in the base administration building said he heard on the communications system speaker a distress call from the incoming plane. He said the plane first reported it was losing one engine, then two. He added that fire trucks were on the runway awaiting the plane's arrival.

The employee said he saw a ball of flame as the plane crashed, creeping over on its left wing tip.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration control tower said it had turned the plane over to the Air Force ground controlled approach personnel before the crash.

The plane was reported to have been en route from Bermuda to its home station at Brookley Air Force Base, Mobile, Ala.

The airport weather bureau reported visibility at the time was about half a mile with ground fog and partial obscuration although the ceiling was about 15,000 feet.

Ike Throws First Ball In Opener

Sell-out Attendance Is Coupled With Clear, Mild Weather

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers shelled lefty Whitey Ford for six hits, including two homers, in the first three innings today and went on to beat the New York Yankees six to three in the World Series opener before a crowd of 34,479, including President Eisenhower and several Cabinet members. Gil Hodges' homer with two on base in the third was the deciding wallop.

Sal (The Barber) Maglie, 39-year-old Dodger pitcher, recovered from a shaky start in which Mickey Mantle's first inning homer sent the Yanks off in front, and tamed the Yankee bats the rest of the way.

The Yanks used four pitchers as Ford was lifted for a pinch hitter after giving up six hits and five runs in the first three innings. Johnny Kucks, Tom Morgan and Bob Turley, all right handers, followed Ford on the mound but their solid relief work came too late.

Home runs—New York, Mantle, Martin. Brooklyn, Robinson, Hodges.

FIRST INNING
YANKS—Maglie's first pitch to Bauer was a fast ball that cut the outside corner for a called strike. Bauer worked the count to 2-2 and went out on a slow grounder to Jackie Robinson.

Slaughter bounced a single off Hodges' glove wide of first base. Mantle hit a home run high over the right field screen into the parking lot across the street, scoring Slaughter ahead of him.

It was Mantle's sixth World Series home run.

Berra walked on a full count. Don Bessent, a righthander, started warming up in the Dodger bullpen.

Skowron struck out, missing a sharp breaking curve outside. McDougald struck out on three pitches, all sharp breaking curves. Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

DODGERS—Ford's first pitch to Gilliam was a high inside fast ball for a called ball. Gilliam bounced the next pitch to McDougald and was an easy out at first.

Reese lined to Bauer who made a nice running catch in the right field corner with his back to the wall.

Snider rolled out. Skowron to Ford who covered first.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING
YANKS—Martin fouled to Campanella about 50 feet behind home plate.

Maglie threw a third called strike past Carey.

Ford went down swinging. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

DODGERS—Robinson smashed a line home run into the lower left field stands. It was his second World Series home run.

Hodges dropped a Texas League single into short center. Mantle limped noticeably as he charged in for the ball.

Furillo lined a double to left center, scoring Hodges with the tying run.

Johnny Kucks, a righthander, began warming up in the Yankee bullpen.

Campanella flied to Bauer in front of the right field scoreboard. Furillo racing to third after the catch.

Ford's attempted pick-off of Furillo got past Carey. Furillo slid back into the bag, unable to advance.

Amoros raised a fly to Mantle in shallow right center, and Mick (Please turn to Page 8, Col. 5)

Dies in Plane After Waving Off Rescuers

ROCKLAND, Mass. (AP)—A Naval Reserve flyer perished in the burning wreckage of his jet plane last night after waving away three would-be rescuers for fear an explosion would harm them. Scores of persons saw the flames kill Lt. (Jg) Donald R. Good, 27, of Natick, father of two children and a commercial pilot in civilian life.

Three men were scorched slightly while trying desperately to pry open the plastic cockpit canopy which jammed after the plane crashed on the chicken farm of Gerald Del Prete, 38.

Witnesses said Lt. Good was still alive while the men were trying to free him. He died after waving away the men who had succeeded in opening the canopy only a few inches.

Del Prete said "when death came to him he was tense. His jaw was set. His lips had been moving. But he wasn't panicky. He was game and courageous."

"The last thing he did in this life was to wave me away. He was afraid the wreckage of his plane was going to blow up and that I'd be killed too."

Del Prete, Policeman Donald O. Hussey and Robert A. Condon tried until the last possible second to rescue Good.

While the three men were working an explosion blew off the tail section of the Cougar jet and sent it 20 feet away.

The plane plowed a path 2,000 feet long in a wooded area and came to rest on Del Prete's farm while on a training flight out of the Weymouth Naval Air Station.

Lt. Good, an American Airlines co-pilot in civilian life, was a native of Fairfax, Mo. He, his wife, and their two children, Charles 3, and Nancy, 10 months, moved to Natick from St. Louis only a month ago. His parents were visiting them at their Natick home.

Car Salesman's Faith Is Partially Restored

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A Dallas car salesman's faith in honest faces is somewhat restored.

Six months ago the salesman allowed a man with an honest face to test-drive a swank new car around the block.

Police and officers in 48 states have been looking for it since.

Yesterday the company's owner, J. A. Treadway, received a phone call from the man, who said the car was parked nearby.

The car was found, plus 12,000 miles, but minus any clues.

"We may never know who the thief was," Treadway said. "But we know one thing for sure—he had a streak of honesty in him."

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Jack Benny solemnly sawed a fiddle for laughs—and charity—in an unusual "concert" in Carnegie Hall last night.

Impeccable in white tie and tails, Benny dusted off a borrowed Stradivarius and strode onto the stage where Heifetz, Kreisler and Elman made musical history.

He tucked the violin under his chin with professional aplomb and prepared to play. But he stopped before he started. He had forgotten his bow.

The audience howled.

And so it went as Benny wrestled with Sarasate's woefully dif-

Truck Runs Over Baby; Only Cuts And Bruises Received

GRAYSLAKE, Ill. (AP)—A 14-ton truck noisily headed for the road yesterday after an excavation job for a new house next door to the home of Mrs. Jeanne Wahl.

She said she started screaming as she saw a front wheel of the truck run over her daughter. The middle set of double wheels also rolled over the baby.

Mrs. Wahl's piercing screams were heard by the driver, Joseph

W. Grenus. He and a helper ran to the child.

A neighbor drove Mrs. Wahl, holding Karen, to the office of Dr. Jerome J. Burke in Grayslake, a town of about 2,000, about 40 miles northwest of Chicago.

Burke found the child bruised from the waist down. He said her skin showed marks of tire treads. Sand and gravel from the shoulder of the road had been driven into her skin.

Burke had X-rays taken but he said the pictures showed no fractures. Later Karen was examined by doctors in Condell Memorial Hospital in nearby Libertyville.

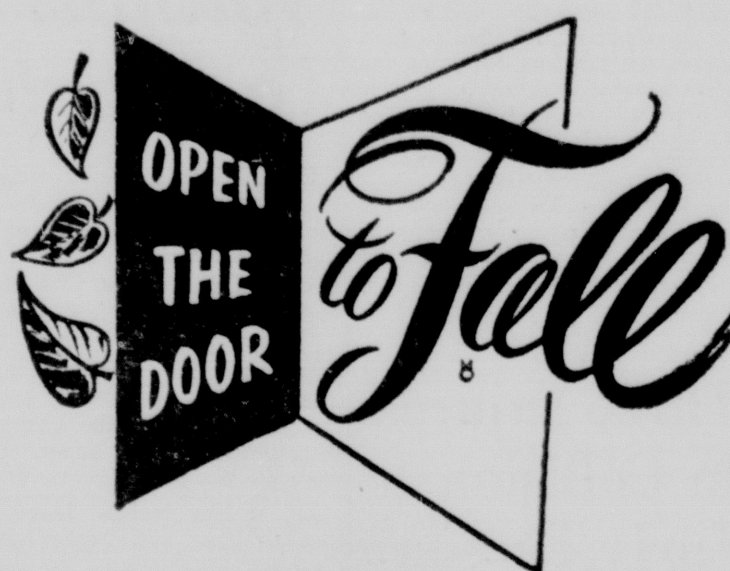

Dr. Burke expressed his opinion on Karen's escape:

"It was a gift of God from the sky."

David, a sophomore at Sacred Heart High School, has been a Democrat Newspaperboy since November, 1955. He has been a successful Little Merchant Newspaperboy, recently receiving an advancement on his route in recognition of his outstanding performance. During the Kansas City Baseball Contest held last spring, David compiled an early lead and held it to become one of the four top carriers and win a two day trip to Kansas City. David is saving part of his route earnings for his education which he hopes to continue at the University of Missouri.

Sweet Springs BPW Club Has Anniversary

The Sweet Springs Business and Professional Women's Club celebrated its 25th anniversary Thursday evening, Sept. 20, with a dinner party in the home economics room of the high school. Mrs. Tom Stuerke, Mrs. Howard Reavis, Mrs. Norman L. Yankee and Mrs. E. G. Mueller were hostesses for the evening. The tables were beautifully laid for 28 members and one guest, Mrs. Dell Corum, a former member.

Tall tapers in silver candleholders, flowers and place cards of silver lined paper were used as decorations.

The Sweet Springs Club was a project of the Sedalia BPW Club, and was organized April 29, '31, by a group from the Sedalia Club, among them Mrs. Cecil Tilberry, Miss Anna Marie Moseman and Miss Dorothy Truit. At one time the club was a member of the state and national federations but later withdrew.

The club has been active in civic work making contributions to a number of civic projects, including the beautifying of the park, making awards to high school students and pledging $500 to the Community Hospital Building Fund.

At one time the club had a small rental library which has become the Sweet Springs Public Library.

After the dinner, Mrs. Frank Farmer, club president, conducted a short business session.

The meeting was then in charge of Mrs. Howard Reavis, who presented Miss Irene Seafoss, a club member, as "Dr. Seafoss," a famous scientist in hypnotism," who under her hypnotic "power and influence," questioned several members regarding personal affairs. Mrs. Mary Scott, Mrs. Elmer Whitworth, Mrs. O. W. Whitsitt, Mrs. L. F. Parker and Mrs. J. H. Hale gave interesting and amusing answers.

Mrs. Corum and Mrs. Yankee, also under the power of Dr. Seafoss, became reminiscent, recalling humorous and amusing incidents of past club years. Mrs. Corum, Mrs. Harold Berry and Mrs. Yankee, charter members, were presented corsages by Mrs. Reavis.

Cheap Atomic Power Search Has Challenge

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The drive to make a cheap atomic-powered electric plant as cheap to operate as those powered by coal is running up against a new challenge today.

Scientists are trying just as hard to make coal-powered plants more efficient and less costly—and thus stretching out the cost gap between the conventional generator and the nuclear one of the future.

Some corporations are developing split personalities in tackling the problem. They are spending millions in an effort to build a less costly atomic power plant. At the same time they are driving to make coal fired power plants more efficient.

Atomic electricity competitive with coal will be realized in other lands before it is in the United States where most areas are rich in cheap conventional fuels. The British hope to get atomic power as cheap as power from coal within five years. The goal in the United States is now 10 years.

Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says that thanks to the present research drive in nuclear science, "a major breakthrough, putting us at or near the goal, could come with some suddenness."

And Willis Gale, chairman of Commonwealth Edison of Chicago, says this nation must strive to hold its lead in technological development rather than strain to attain fixed goals of kilowatt capacity by stepped up building of atomic plants of current design.

Edison Electric Institute has a group of six utility executives alerted to keep abreast of the progress in making nuclear power plants competitive.

Westinghouse Electric is an example of a company playing both sides of the power street. It is building an atomic power plant at Shippingport, Pa., to be operated by Duquesne Light & Power, starting next year with initial output of 60,000 kilowatts. It's also working with Pennsylvania Power & Light and Yankee Atomic electric Co. on other atomic projects. Altogether it's putting 30 million dollars into its atomic program.

But at south Philadelphia Westinghouse engineers are working hard in a steam laboratory to get higher temperatures and pressures in the big steam turbine-generator units that produce electricity—and thus get power more cheaply.

In time, of course, the atomic branch of the electric business will catch up with steam turbine development. The constantly upgraded coal plants, meantime, are giving the atom quite a race.

Government Reports Show Profit, Volume At All-Time Highs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government reports, just out, show the nation's booming economy is moving ahead on several key fronts.

The Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission announced jointly yesterday that:

1. Manufacturers' sales during the first six months of 1956 totaled a record 146 billion dollars. This was nearly 10 billions more than in the first half of 1955. Only the motor vehicle and equipment industry failed to share in the increase, surruring an 11 per cent drop.

2. Profits by manufacturing firms during the opening half of this year rose to a new peak of nearly eight billion dollars after federal taxes. This was an advance of 9 per cent over the same period last year.

The Commerce Department announced employment stood at 66,071,000 in September. This was 700,000 below August—but still close to the record of 66,752,000 set that month. The department said the decline was seasonal.

Cigarettes Get Blame For Los Angeles Smog

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Something else has been blamed for Los Angeles smog—cigarettes. The latest report of the air pollution control district comes up with the calculation that 64,906,230 cigarettes are smoked every day in Los Angeles County. This, the APCD estimates, adds 12 tons of contaminants to the air every day.

Adlai Appears To Bait Ike Into Debate

EN ROUTE With Stevenson, Adlai E. Stevenson carried his eastern campaign back into Pennsylvania today with apparently every intention of drawing President Eisenhower further into personal, if long-range debate.

Stevenson's backers pinned their hopes for accelerating what he believes is a growing Democratic trend by getting his GOP opponent to descend further from the high perch that Eisenhower originally set as his standard for the campaign.

The Democratic presidential nominee sought to tag Eisenhower with "political looseness" in recent speeches, and compared Eisenhower's campaigning with a practice he said previously was identified with Vice President Nixon.

Saying Nixon talks about his opponents in terms of "appeasement" and "communism" and "ugly words" like that, Stevenson told a crowd at Morristown, N.J., yesterday.

"I do hope the vice presidential taste for extreme and loose language is not becoming contagious."

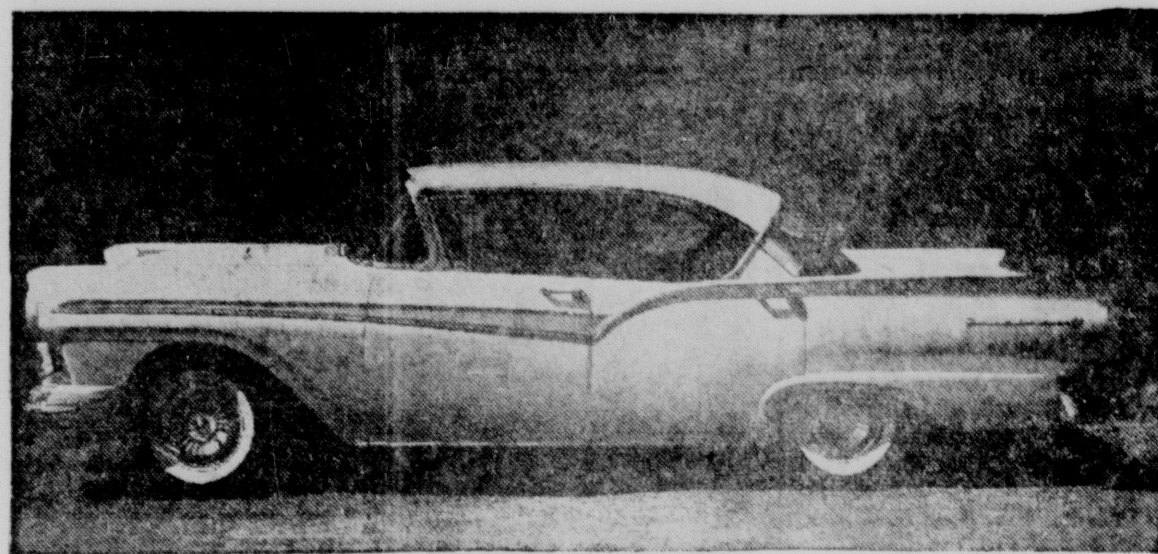

Eisenhower's description of claims that only Democrats care about the working as "wicked nonsense" drew the angry declaration by Stevenson that to label an opponent as "wicked" went beyond the bounds of normal campaign discussion.

The Democratic nominee, seeking to press the issue, bought 15 minutes of TV time from the Columbia Broadcasting System to reply at 11 p.m. EDT—from a Pittsburgh studio—to speeches by Eisenhower at Lexington, Ky., and Cleveland, Ohio.

He said the TV talk would be a reply to Eisenhower's challenge: which party has done more to help the people meet their every day problems.

"President Eisenhower has defined the issue," Stevenson told a rally at Jersey City, N.J., last night, "and I speak for every Democrat in the country when I say that we accept the issue as he defines it."

The Pittsburgh TV address will be the last of a day campaigning, at Scranton, Wilkes Barre,

From the road up, 1957 Fords are a complete departure from previous models. They will be unveiled by Ford dealers in 19 body styles, of which this is the four door Victoria, a member of the new "Fairlane 500" series. Fairlane models are nine inches longer and four inches lower than their 1956 counterparts. Though the new models are lower, interior headroom is as great as last year, since the car's chassis and floor are re-designed for a lower center of gravity. The new models are on display at the W. A. Smith Motor Co., 206 East Third.

Officers Blame Family Trouble For Killings

CLINTON, N.C. (AP)—Domestic difficulties were blamed by officers for a tenant farmer going berserk yesterday and killing his six children and himself.

Rufus A. King, 35, had a temper and had several fuses with his wife that neighbors knew about, but he was a sober church goer without a police record.

Yesterday morning, apparently while two of his children were waiting for a school bus in front of their five-room house, his mind snapped.

Within a matter of minutes he had shot each of the six through the head with a .22 rifle and then beat their heads horribly with an ax and the rifle.

Three hours later King's body was found in a cornfield about a quarter mile from the house. He had shot himself between the eyes with a shotgun.

Coroner Coleman Carter said "it's a clear case of six murders and a suicide."

Mrs. King, 27, was at a brother's house at the time. She is under sedatives, suffering from shock plus a beating administered by her husband.

A mass funeral is scheduled for tomorrow with burials in the King family cemetery at Clinton.

Mrs. King had sworn a warrant charging King with wife beating.

Two deputies who arrived at the King house around 8:00 a.m. to serve the warrant discovered the bodies of the children.

The children were Alice 10, Joseph 9, Melvin 7, Ruth 5, Jerry 4, and Susan 2.

Bing Crosby Says Record Demand Down to Whisper

LONDON (AP)—Bing Crosby said today the demand for his recordings is down to a "faint whisper" because he is running plumb out of drive and enthusiasm.

The old groaner, a topline for three decades, made his comment in a letter written from Hayden Lake, Idaho, to the popular music column in the Daily Express.

The column recently did a treatise on the 52-year-old crooner entitled, "Is Bing Crosby going out—or has he gone?"

"I'm 'long gone,'" Crosby replied, explaining: "I just don't sing as well as I used to."

"I'm just not as enthusiastic as I used to be. The feel for a song isn't there, the desire to sing, to be in action—and when this is absent, so is the style."

"I don't think increasing age has got anything to do with it or that the pipes are getting rusty, because I believe voice quality has very little to do with public acceptance of a popular singer. "It's the style and mood they create that put them over."

Crosby said his waning enthusiasm will not, however, keep him from recording "here and there and now and again."

Express columnist Cyril Stapleton wrote Crosby is being over modest.

"He can still teach style and give points to everyone else," said Stapleton.

Employs Steel To Relieve School Jam

GARY, Ind. (P)—This steel city is using its major product to build a school that officials say is less expensive, faster to erect and can be bought on a down payment plan.

They say it could be an answer to the national problem of bulging classrooms.

Midwest educators are watching closely the building of the six-room, one-story Hosford Park grade school. Its steel construction, builders say, makes it fire-proof and nearly eliminates maintenance.

Calumet Township School District, after a lengthy legal tangle, obtained permission from the state to make a down payment of $15,000. The remainder of the $200,000 cost will be paid next year from the township's accumulated building fund.

The school was designed by Structo Schools Corp. of Boston in collaboration with the United States Steel Corp., which has huge plants in Gary.

Harold DeVault, township trustee, says construction of two schools earlier this year had exhausted the township's school building funds. The two schools — 10 and 12 rooms — were built of brick at a total cost of about $450,000.

The new school is about the size of the 10-room school and in addition to its six class rooms has an office, activity room, teachers room, boiler room, two rest rooms and several storage rooms.

It cost around $50,000 less than the 10-room brick building, DeVault says, and is expected to be completed by Nov. 1 — five months after construction started on a part-time basis.

"We are absolutely overloaded with students beyond the capacity of our buildings," DeVault explained.

"It would have taken us a year and a half to accumulate the money needed to pay for the school outright. Like the rest of the nation, we need more school rooms today — not five years from now."

Structo Corp. says its down payment plan, as initiated in Gary, is expected to attract school districts with comparatively little cash on hand.

Defeated Candidate Also Loses His Wife

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (P)—D. L. Cullum, a loser in the race for state auditor in the July 31 Democratic primary, lost his wife because he failed to tell her he was a candidate.

Mrs. Gladys Cullum was granted a divorce yesterday after charging that Cullum's failure to tell her about his candidacy constituted "cruel and inhuman treatment." They were married in 1955.

She said she was "embarrassed and humiliated" when newsmen inquired about her husband's candidacy and she knew nothing about it.

Cullum, an employee at a lumber company, polled 32,000 votes without the slightest tremor of a campaign.

Mrs. Cullum also said that Cullum had failed to support her and had "nagged, fussed and quarreled."

Richard Younger

Younger Will Hold Public Art Class

For the fourth straight year amateur art enthusiasts of Sedalia will have the opportunity to attend a special art class at the city library. Starting on Oct. 3, Richard E. Younger, Sedalia, well-known professional artist in this area, will conduct a ten-week course on Monday evenings. This course is open to the public as it has been in the past.

During the first two years of the art classes, Remington Schuyler, formerly nationally-known cover artist, book illustrator and teacher, conducted the classes in Sedalia. He was head of the art department at Missouri Valley College, Marshall, while teaching the weekly sessions. Mr. Schuyler passed away a year ago and Younger, one of Schuyler's former students, took over the class.

Younger was graduated from Missouri Valley with an art degree and later attended the Kansas City Art Institute where he pursued his training further for his career. He is presently an artist for a local television station and has had a successful career as a portrait artist in this area. He has won numerous awards for his paintings in a number of art exhibits.

Instruction in the art class at the library will consist of working in a number of media, including oils, charcoal, pastels, and water colors. Younger will begin with the basic elements of art for those who wish to enter an art class for the first time. For those who are more advanced in amateur painting, he will outline his course to benefit them also.

The first session on Oct. 3 will be held at 7 p.m., at which time official enrollments will be taken. Younger has suggested, however, that those interested in taking the course should contact him at telephone 6315 or 4004 in advance so he can anticipate the enrollment ahead of time and plan his course accordingly.

New Judge Believes Justice Delayed Is Not Good Justice

TRENTON, N.J. (P)—Justice William J. Brennan, who steps up to the U.S. Supreme Court within two weeks, is a judge who dislikes "procedural niceties" but can wax eloquent in defense of the legal rights of a penniless murder.

Brennan credits the accomplishments of New Jersey's model court system for his surprise appointment to the nation's highest court. The 50-year-old State Supreme Court Justice is a classic product of New Jersey's eight years under a reorganized court plan.

A Democrat, Brennan has never been active politically. One of eight children of an Irish immigrant, he worked his way to a law degree and the law has been his only adult profession. He became a judge almost simultaneously with the birth of the court system in which he takes such pride.

One of his major preoccupations in his home state has been the speeding up of the courts' everyday work.

"Justice delayed is essentially bad justice," Brennan believes.

"Witnesses die, memories fail and the right may not prevail when it takes years for a case to reach a decision," Brennan says.

How does Brennan feel about some of the important issues that will come before him when he replaces retiring Justice Sherman Minton? What are his views on segregation, Fifth Amendment witnesses? Is he liberal or conservative?

"How do you answer questions like that?" is Brennan's only rejoinder.

As a lawyer he will not comment on hypothetical cases. As a judge he will not pre-judge real cases.

Brennan has written two majority decisions involving the Fifth Amendment's privilege against self-incrimination.

"The privilege of a witness against being compelled to incriminate himself, of ancient origin, is precious to free men as a restraint against high-handed and arrogant inquisitorial practices." Brennan said in a 1955 opinion.

The price of occasional failure of justice under its protection is paid in the larger interest of the general personal security."

In both self-incrimination cases the witnesses claiming privilege lost his appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Brennan is a Roman Catholic. Like Frank Murphy, the last Catholic to serve on the U.S. Supreme Court, one of his specialties has been the field of labor relations law. During World War II as an Army colonel, he handled labor problems in defense industry. After the war, in private practice, he was attorney for a number of large corporations during the post-war wave of strikes.

Young Mother Attempts Bank Theft

CLEVELAND (AP) — A young mother failed in a pitiful attempt at a bank robbery yesterday, and police were puzzled at her motive.
They arrested Mrs. Maybelle Millard, 25, mother of four children, and wife of a 30-year-old veteran who lost both legs in France during World War II.

She is accused of trying to rob a shopping center branch of the Cleveland Trust Co. with a note demanding money. She carried no gun, and left without loot when the woman teller rang the alarm.
Police saw her drive away in a 1955 station wagon and took the license number. She was arrested when she drove up to her comfortable, ranch-style home in suburban Highland Heights about three hours later.
Her husband, Richard, 30, draws a disability pension and is employed as a finisher by an optical firm. He said his wife had been under doctor's care for a year.

The bank teller, 30-year-old Mrs. Florence M. Rees, said the woman shoved three rolls of pennies at her and a piece of children's drawing paper on which was crudely lettered:
"Don't say anything. Give me your money. I have a buddy at the door with a gun on you."

Mrs. Rees opened a drawer, pressed the alarm button and gave the woman a dollar bill and two quarters in exchange for the pennies. The woman picked up $1.25 and left.

DODGERS — Mantle made a running catch of Maglie's fly.
Gilliam walked.
Reese punched a hit-and-run single into center sending Gilliam to third. McDougald caught Reese off first. In the run-down, Reese was tagged out by Skowron while Gilliam remained at third.
Snider was given an intentional pass.
Robinson forced Snider.
No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

EIGHTH INNING
YANKES — McDougald struck out for the third time.
Martin walked on a full count. Lefthanded hitting Joe Collins batted for Carey and struck out on three pitches.

the Woodlawn Addition. He won a two-day trip to Kansas City.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. C. J. Blach, with invocation by Dr. K. L. Holdren.

Joe Forsee, program chairman, presented George H. Trader, president of the Sedalia Democrat Co., George H. Scruton, editor, and Kenneth U. Love, business manager. All made short talks in appreciation of what the Optimist Club is doing and has done in the past for the carrier boys as well as other boys in the community.

Forsee stated that the first newspaper boy in America was Benjamin Franklin, who helped his brother in 1721. The very first newsboy was in London in 1622.

Explaining the little merchant plan now used by The Sedalia Democrat, he said that 97 per cent of the papers were using this system. He had a number of letters from prominent men who are former newspaper boys, among them Walt Disney.

Forsee then introduced three members of the circulation department, Russell Petree, Charlie Barnes and Jim Yount.

Singing was led by Charles Hanna, with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Guests introduced were Terry Pile and Ed Kuhr of Sedalia and Dick Dougherty of St. Joseph.

Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, director of the membership division of the Chamber of Commerce, thanked the Optimist Club for their work in the Chamber membership drive. They ranked fourth among the service clubs participating.

Proper Planning Eliminates Hit-or-Miss Buying, Makes Home Decorating Easier

Two rooms in model homes decorated by John Abbate are similar in floor plan but completely different in feeling. They illustrate the importance of careful planning before purchasing interior furnishings. At left, a contemporary Far Eastern theme is played up by wallpaper in slate, white and red; sofas are silvery gray, carpet is deep gold and accents are gold, red and white. At right, colonial styling with a modern feeling uses flower and butterfly design of wallpaper in shades of gray, white and celadon to accentuate the ceiling angles. Carpeting is celadon, sheer curtains are white. Sofa's fabric combines these colors with touches of deep coral.

If your plans for decorating your home are stalled at the "where-to-start" stage, draw up a chair.

When home fashion time rolls around this fall, you'll want to look at the magnificent displays of new furnishings with a steady hand on the purse and a level head to avoid the hit-or-miss buying that wrecks the pocket-book and decorating scheme.

"Lack of continuity in her planning is the biggest problem for the average amateur decorator," John Abbate, nationally known designer and color stylist, told me. I had admitted I was stumped at where to start to refurbish a home that's survived seven years of hard wear and shows it.

Abbate, a young, easy-going and friendly sort of decorator, laid out a blueprint to help those like myself organize our aims and purchases for now and later.

First, he says, determine your theme.

Do you prefer traditional or contemporary or a blend of past and present?

If traditional, will you have English, French or Italian provincial or American colonial pieces? If contemporary, will it be Scandinavian, Far Eastern or casual American in styling?

Every decision, as he points out, sets a limitation of a positive nature, guiding you to tasteful choices and guarding against a mishmash effect.

Second, decide on a color scheme. What colors do you and your family like the best?

Base your scheme on a favorite color and choose others that are complementary, the expert advises. This is the time to select wall-papers and paints and decide where to use them. If the same color will be used for walls and carpet, Abbate says the latter should be a tone or two darker. The sofa should blend with carpet or wall color.

Third, draw a floor plan to scale. I know this is not an easy task and don't forget door and window openings. But, as Abbate points out, if you have a scale plan and furniture cutouts you can see more readily how much furniture you can actually use and how it can be arranged best in relation to doorways, closets and windows.

Now we're ready for the fourth step — shopping.

With a theme and floor plan in mind, you can shop selectively, eliminating from your thoughts things you definitely do not want. Start with major furnishings — a good basic sofa for the living room with simple lines and individual appeal, for example. With major furnishings selected, the overall coordination job is much easier, he says.

Keep a list of things that interest you, get fabric samples if possible. Jot down prices, sizes, delivery dates and the name of the shop. File the information in a notebook and check back against the budget and the floor plan.

When your decorating plans are set, with all facts compiled and squared up with plan and purse, schedule any painting or papering that needs to be done. Check samples to make sure colors are exact. Wait until major furnishings are installed to select the accessories, such as pictures, mirrors, vases or planters. These important "extras" can then be planned to be the right size, color and type for the interior.

Police Psychology

DETROIT (AP) — A psychiatric consultant says police chiefs should select only well-adjusted applicants for police jobs.

The advice comes from Alan Canty, director of the Detroit Recorder's Court psychiatric clinic. He says there are often secret reasons why a man wants to be a policeman — such as acting out aggressions, or using the job as an outlet for "hostile feelings against society."

Canty says all police departments should get psychological advice before accepting applicants.

Showers ended and skies cleared in most of the Northeast today and fairly pleasant autumn weather was indicated for the opening game of the World Series in Brooklyn.

Warm and clear weather also was the outlook for most of the southern part of the country. Showers were general along the Gulf Coast and through the lower Mississippi Valley into Tennessee yesterday. Heaviest falls were under one inch at New Orleans and Jackson, Miss.

Showers were reported during the night from southern Utah southwestward into Southern California. Rain was in prospect for the far Northwest as a new storm neared the coastline.

Surf Board Traffic

HONOLULU (AP) — Ever see a surf board traffic jam? The Board of Harbor Commissioners says the beach at Waikiki is becoming one big jumble of surf boards and swimmers daily, and it wants the authority to do something about it.

The harbor board now controls the water only to the high water mark. Board officials have asked the governor to extend their control over the beach area as well so they can limit — or, at least regulate — the surf board riders.

The board said it would also like to control the number of beginners taking up the sport — so many of them fall off and their unaccompanied boards are becoming hazards.

The 'Why' of National Newspaper Week

Everybody has a "Week" — even the dogs and cats — so why not one devoted to the newspapers?

Well, there is one — and this is it — right in the middle on Wednesday. The Sedalia Democrat ace carrier boys were recognized by the Optimist Club Tuesday with honor pins, sweater swatches, and trophy. The B. P. O. Elks lodge honors the newspapers Wednesday night with a free feed.

This Newspaper Week observance has been going on for more than a couple of decades, and like anything else it had to get started somewhere. After all these years we finally caught up with the founder — a man named John B. Long, now general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

So he's the one to tell the "Why" of National Newspaper Week. The answer to this question which is raised every year goes back to the depths of the notorious depression of the early 30's in the United States.

During those harrowing days, Long says, the free press of America was made the whipping boy of prominent men and women in high government positions.

We were dubbed "capitalistic press" with a sneering snarl of degrading connotation. These same important officials kept telling the people the nation's editors were owned and controlled by the big advertisers, and editorial policies of American newspapers were "dictated from the counting room." Public confidence and acceptance of our hometown newspapers, like the economy of the country, hit its lowest ebb.

Suddenly out of the nowhere into the here the Blue Eagle spread its wings as the symbol of the National Recovery Act, which was quickly adopted as the cure-all of all depressions. This plan appeared suddenly, but gave ample evidence of having been worked upon over a long period of time in advance because the program was worked out to the smallest detail, including a federal government licensing provision for every business in the country down to the smallest corner store or weekly newspaper in the great plains, rugged mountain areas, sea shores, or desert. Anyone could file a charge of a violation of ethics of the Blue Eagle Code and the business institutions — large or tiny — thus charged would have to appear personally in Washington, D. C., to defend itself out of its meager resources against the giant prosecution machinery of the greatest government in the history of the world.

As in all cases predicated upon the greatest good for the greatest number, our newspapers went along until suddenly the officers and managers of organized newspaper associations throughout the country came to the sudden realization that the Blue Eagle was a licensing scheme by which to control the press of the country, and the war was on!

Ultimately the Blue Eagle and its codes were declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court, but in the meantime several state newspaper associations in California, Pennsylvania, and Oklahoma, had started illuminating campaigns in their separate jurisdictions to re-convince the people that their faith in their hometown newspapers as guardian of their freedom, fighters for their right to know, and their key to better living, were still worthy of their respect and acceptance.

These were so successful that seven years ago John Long made the motion at an annual convention of Newspaper Association Managers, Inc., which established as their responsibility an annual observance of National Newspaper Week during the first week of October.

The success of this endeavor is best exemplified by the fact that 56 million people spend $3,189,000 daily in nickels and dimes for their daily newspapers, and 18 million grass roots Americans subscribe annually to their hometown weeklies. This is the highest net paid circulation of America newspapers of mass communication.

That is the "Why" of National Newspaper Week.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Nixon, Hall Put Heat on Ike to Campaign

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—What induced the President to change his mind about a hard-hitting campaign was two reports, one from Vice-President Nixon, the other from Chairman Len Hall.

Nixon telephoned the White House after his speech in Houston warning that Texas would go Democratic unless Eisenhower went on the hustings with both a lot of speeches and tough speeches.

Simultaneously, Len Hall went around to the White House with the most doleful news of all, namely that Washington and Oregon seemed to be veering over to the Democrats and that California looked bad too. Opinion on the latter state came from Nixon, himself a Californian, who expressed the opinion that Senator Tom Kuchel would lose to Democratic candidate Dick Richards unless Ike took a fast trip out to the West coast himself.

Chairman Hall also feared that Senator Magnuson in Washington and Senator Wayne Morse in Oregon were running ahead of Governor Arthur Langlie and ex-secretary of the Interior Doug McKay.

There's a strong suspicion that the reports laid on Ike's doorstep were not actually as bad as Hall and Nixon indicated; that they exaggerated somewhat in order to put the heat on the President to campaign. Whether this is true or not, the two men got results. The last thing the President wants is to be defeated. He promised to take off the gloves.

Dulles Is Too Jerky
The sudden and mysterious trip of Khrushchev and Tito from Belgrade to Yalta is considered the worst news the West has had since Col. Nasser seized the Suez Canal.

Western diplomats don't know what exactly happened at the hush-hush sessions between Tito and Khrushchev on Tito's private island of Brioni, but they do know what happened before. It all seems to have resulted from another jerky move by John Foster Dulles.

Prior to the Khrushchev-Tito meeting, American military men had ok'd a quantity of Jet fighters for the Yugoslav army. This had been approved not only as a part of the U. S. military build-up for the Yugoslav army, but to keep Russian Mig's out of Yugoslavia.

The Jet deal was all set, had been approved by the Pentagon, and Tito had every reason to believe the planes would begin arriving.

Then suddenly John Foster Dulles over-ruled the Pentagon; cancelled the planes.

Dulles was understandably scared of the anti-Tito congressional debate at the time, feared reaction from his own Republican leaders in the Senate. While he may have been right in cancelling the Jets, the suddenness of the move sent Tito into a tantrum.

He immediately invited the No. 1 communist of Russia, party boss Khrushchev, to come to Belgrade. There they embraced like long-lost brothers. Final result probably will be complete re-entry of Yugoslavia into the Soviet orbit.

Note—Diplomats wish that Mr. Dulles would move a bit slower, not jerk the reins of Foreign affairs so hard. If he had stalled Col. Nasser over the Aswan dam and strung out his denial of funds for a couple of months, Nasser wouldn't have lost face and felt impelled to act against the West by seizing Suez. Likewise, if Dulles had delayed a decision on the Jets to Tito and stalled on the excuse of American elections, Tito might not have flown into a sudden tantrum and rushed into the arms of the Kremlin.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS! "I forgot to register." You can't vote in the November 6 election unless you are registered.

Wisdom In Tradition

It is well that President Eisenhower is continuing a tradition set by his predecessors, Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, to hand his campaign opponent secret foreign policy data for his guidance.

Mr. Roosevelt first resorted to this practice in 1944 when he faced the then Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York during World War II. The hope then was and now is to avoid any damage to this country's position which might stem from misinformation.

The White House has wisely made clear that in supplying this data it seeks in no way to deter Adlai Stevenson from criticizing U. S. foreign policy. Mr. Eisenhower stressed the same point when he accepted Mr. Truman's offer four years ago.

This arrangement is one of the clearest answers anyone could ask for on the question of the basic sense of patriotism which guides both major parties.

When Satellites Meet

The World Today—

Both Parties Helped Kill School Aid

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON.—Confused parents wonder: Who killed federal aid to education which would have meant more classrooms? Democrats or Republicans? The answer: Both parties had a hand in it.

Both parties have blamed each other. President Eisenhower this week sought to give the impression the Democrats did it. His explanation was too simple. Here is an attempt to explain it:

Early in 1955 Eisenhower proposed a federal aid to education program. A bill to carry out his ideas was offered in the House. A lot of other bills were introduced, too, including bills by Democrats who had a majority in the House.

The House Education and Labor Committee held hearings 27 days and agreed on a compromise bill sponsored by Rep. Kelley (D-Pa.). Roughly the Eisenhower program called for aid to states based on need. The Kelley bill would have divided it according to the school-age population in each state.

The committee vote for the Kelley bill was 21-9. There were 15 Democrats and 6 Republicans on the bill; 7 Republicans and 2 Democrats against it.

One of the Republicans voting for it was Rep. McConnell of Pennsylvania, who played a big part in what followed later. He is the senior GOP member of the committee.

The committee okayed the bill in July 1955. The House didn't bring it up for a vote that year. In 1956 Eisenhower again proposed federal aid. The House brought up the Kelley bill last June 28.

What followed got complicated and confusing.

Rep. Powell (D-NY), a Negro proposed a red hot amendment saying no federal money could go to states which persisted in public school segregation.

Debate in the house is limited, but it was clear that if the Kelley bill with the Powell amendment attached came up in the Senate, where debate is unlimited, Southerners would filibuster the whole bill to death.

So a House vote for the Powell amendment was pretty certain to doom the bill. Eisenhower opposed the Powell amendment. But the amendment passed on an unrecorded teller vote. Reporters in the house said a majority of Republicans voted for Powell's amendment.

Then Rep. Gwinn (R-NY) proposed an amendment to scrap the Kelley bill's idea of aid to states according to school-age population and have the federal government give back to the states one per cent of the total income tax, individual and corporate, collected in each state. The refund would be used for education.

This, too, was approved on an unrecorded vote. Sometime later, perhaps an hour, it was discovered that adoption of the Gwinn amendment eliminated the Powell amendment which the House had just approved.

So there was another vote, knocking out the Gwinn amendment. Since Powell's amendment had been eliminated in this process, Powell offered it again.

This time it was approved on a rollcall vote, 225-192. It broke down: 148 Republicans and 77 Democrats for the Powell amendment; 146 Democrats and 46 Republicans against.

Here Rep. McConnell came back into the picture. Although he had voted in committee for the Kelley bill — he moved now to shelve it and substitute for it a bill carrying out Eisenhower's ideas.

This was defeated, 261-158. It broke down: 215 Democrats and 46 Republicans voted against it; 149 Republicans and 9 Democrats voted for it. This was the only vote Eisenhower mentioned this week in blasting the Democrats.

Then came the final vote on whether to pass the Kelley bill at all. The bill was killed, 224-194. It broke down: 119 Republicans and 105 Democrats voted to kill the bill; 119 Democrats and 75 Republicans voted to pass it.

On that final action McConnell reported himself as present but didn't vote.

Last summer Adlai Stevenson blamed the Republicans for what happened to federal school aid. Now he is more careful. Speaking about it on Sept. 28 he said "a large majority of Republicans voted against" the Kelley bill.

But he added: "It must be said in fairness... that the situation on that vote was complicated by other factors which crossed party lines." However, he said, "strong leadership" from Eisenhower would have switched a lot of Republican votes in favor of the bill.

This week Eisenhower, who seems to get nettled by Stevenson's accusations, didn't say flatly the Democrats killed aid to schools but, he did say:

"There was only one clear vote on my call for action. In the House the opposition voted against it by 215 to 9, while three-fourths of the Republicans voted for it."

He was referring to McConnell's last-minute effort to substitute a Republican bill for the Kelley bill. But he said nothing of the fact that the Republicans outnumbered the Democrats in voting for the Powell amendment and then in killing the Kelley bill.

What They Say

David A. Hamill (REA Administrator) — I view REA borrowers as purely local rural electric systems that are carrying out a community purpose in the highest traditions of our free enterprise system. They are performing a worthwhile and indispensable service. They are to be encouraged to maintain their local and individual identity as businesses of their specific communities. As such, their membership, acting through their boards of directors and management, are to control, motivate and make their own decisions. REA will render advice and encouragement; we will look to the adequacy and security of the loans; we will not dictate to, or make decisions for, these local, independent businesses.

REA does not advocate all public or all private power... we will continue to cooperate with the REA borrowers and with the power marketing agencies of the Department of the Interior and TVA) to assure to the rural electric cooperatives those benefits of federal power to which they are entitled by federal and state law.

Generation and transmission loans... will continue to be made when necessary to provide: (a) adequate supply of power to meet present and future needs of the REA borrowers; or (b) when such loans will provide such power at a lower cost than alternate available suppliers.

REA borrowers have long served loads that are not strictly agricultural in nature. This is to be expected as rural areas build up and small industry moves farther out in the country. Our policy is to meet all legitimate loan needs within the meaning of the Rural Electrification Act, and I look on such (rural industrial) loads in no different light than any other. The question of advisability rests with the REA borrower.

REA borrowers are an integral part of the nation's utility system — in the final analysis they will succeed or fail according to the type and cost of service they render to their consumers. For this reason REA must likewise measure and evaluate its actions toward these borrowers, keeping ever uppermost in mind better service at lower cost.

As a rancher, I know that in order to stay in business I must be competitive. This requires that I adapt my operations to changing times and changing conditions. I could not operate today as I did 20 years ago. I would be out of business. This applies to rural electric systems. To stay in business they must be competitive and to be competitive they must adapt their operations to changing times and conditions.

AEC is the federal agency responsible for the development of atomic power. It is looking for people with money to help develop it, and our co-ops should not get involved beyond their ability to pay. As a federal agency ourselves we have a close working agreement with AEC. We are constantly informed of the progress in this field. When atomic energy is competitive we will be among the first to know about it.

Who's Going to Sit Where?—

Washington Social List May Undergo Some Revising

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON.—About this time every year, a lovely Green Suede book comes off the press listing Who's Who in society and official Washington.

This book called 'The Social List of Washington' has a rough time every four years, because no sooner has everyone checked up to see who made it (and who didn't) when the election upsets the listing. Especially if a new administration comes in.

Come January and the New Congress, the publisher, Carolyn Hagner Shaw, knows she'll have to get out a supplement no matter which party wins.

Says this social arbiter of Washington: "Perplexing questions of protocol will arise if unmarried Adlai Stevenson becomes President."

Should his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth (Buffy) Ives, act as his official hostess, will she also assume the position of the First Lady of the Land, receiving the honors usually accorded only to the wife of the President of the United States? Or will she simply act as his official hostess?

If the latter is the case, would she, as his sister, rank the wife of the Vice President? If so, would we be faced with a feud like that between Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Dolly Gann, which occurred some years ago? Should Mrs. Ives take either role, the next question is where would her husband, a retired career diplomat in his own right, be ranked? If Mrs. Ives should step down in favor of Mr. Stevenson's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, Jr., the situation would be even more confused. As Mrs. Stevenson, Jr., is very young, could she possibly be ranked above the wives of Supreme Court Justices and members of the Cabinet?

The book is an authority on official "who ranks whom" and the correct manner of addressing such dignitaries as a King, President or Justice of the Supreme Court, and all other matters of protocol.

Outside of Washington, strict devotion to protocol may seem "much ado about nothing" but the incorrect seating of a foreign diplomat by a Washington hostess would be considered a snub and the worst kind of social error.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Modern surgery has been developed to the place that thousands of people go with confidence to the operating room every day. Few of us have never had an operation. Many of us have undergone many operations.

Our bodies have been rebuilt. Repairs have given us new usefulness. We enjoy comfort such as our ancestors thought was impossible. Most of us do not realize the progress that has been made in the last generation.

When we go to the doctor with a pain, and he advises an operation we seldom hesitate to accept his advice. We have faith in him and in his skill. We look forward to relief from pain, and for longer life.

The Great Surgeon of the mind and soul is even more skilled in His operations on our sins, but we frequently hesitate to go to Him with our problems. We lack faith and hope in the results. We do not want to be dependent on One outside ourselves. We desire to deal with our own problems, and we do a very poor job much of the time.

It is strange that we are willing to be dependent on human surgeons and doctors, while we hesitate to admit failure and need for help in the spiritual side of our lives.

God has a record as long as history for His satisfactory operations on soul ailments. God has never lost a patient who put himself entirely in His hands.

'Floating Voice' Is on Warpath to Save Old Indian Burial Plot in Kansas City

By MARY KAY FLYNN
NEA Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Kans. — (NEA) — "Floating Voice," a turbulent part-Indian spinster who has spent half a century on the warpath in defense of her ancestors' burial ground in downtown Kansas City, may have to back down somewhat on the curse she put on the white man.

"No white man ever kept his word," was the battle cry of Miss Helena Conley — "Floating Voice" — as she patrolled the burial ground, established as a cemetery by treaty in 1855.

A white man currently is rallying her sympathizers. A large number of descendants of her own tribe — the Wyandots who came to this city in 1844 — are her foremost foes in her vigilant stand to preserve the cemetery as a shrine.

An intra-tribal battle is being waged. The incorporated Oklahoma Wyandots want to sell the two-acre burial plot and divide the proceeds among their corporate tribal members. The unincorporated Wyandots of several Midwestern states want to keep it as a hallowed memorial.

The latter group's fight is marshaled by Alan Farley, non-Indian, attorney and local historian whose law office overlooks the historic cemetery.

Now Miss Conley threatens to put a curse on Lawrence E. Zane of Miami, Okla., chief of the Wyandot tribe, who called a pow-wow in Oklahoma for disposal of the valuable cemetery site for commercial development. The meeting followed passage of a controversial bill during the past Congressional session handing the property back to the Wyandot Indians.

It was a similar bill passed in 1906 that fired Helena and her two sisters, now deceased, to defend the cemetery with guns and a makeshift fort. Then they were victorious over the white man's legislation.

One of the sisters, Eliza, a lawyer, in 1910 argued the validity of the 1855 treaty before the Supreme Court. Her tombstone in the Indian graveyard notes that she was the "only woman ever admitted to the United States Supreme Court."

Eliza did more than swing a legal tomahawk. In 1909, when threatened by eviction from the cemetery by soldiers from Ft. Leavenworth, she publicly climbed a tree and tacked on it a sign reading "You trespass at your peril."

Charging infringement, she settled herself in a trench to block workmen trying to build a retaining wall along one side of the cemetery, chased off a surveyor another time and helped hold off a grading contractor working near the place.

In 1907 the Conley sisters built a shed-like fort near the graves of their mother and other relatives declaring, "We must protect the graves of our ancestors, if necessary with shotguns. The government must not go back on its word to the Wyandot Indians."

The fort was wrecked in 1911 by a U. S. marshal and deputies on order of a federal judge during the absence of the sisters, who had been summoned to the county courthouse on pretext of attending a hearing. But by nightfall the women retrieved the broken pieces of the fortress and rebuilt it.

Helena, once a familiar figure in the graveyard, seldom is seen there now. More than 70 years old, the infirmities of age prevent her once-frequent visits to tidy the plot — and stand off anyone she considered a trespasser. These included such would-be visitors as photo enthusiasts, spooners and even park employees.

In seclusion at her home here, she still regards the white man with mistrust. Her headstone marking her future grave in the Indian cemetery bears the inscription "Cursed be the villain that molest their graves."

That goes without reservation.

Suez Seizure May Effect Investments

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Does it pay one nation to seize the property of others? Some seem to think so, but the question is whether they can run it themselves. Also whether they'll scare off further outside financial aid.

Seizure of the Suez Canal is the latest example of the nationalization that has been gaining strength in various areas. Users of the canal are meeting in London to decide how they can get along under Egyptian nationalization of the property. Meanwhile foreign ministers of Egypt, Russia, Britain and France are heading for New York to debate before the United Nations Security Council.

But on the purely business and investment front the debate is largely one of dollars and cents. Americans have huge sums invested abroad—more than 19 billion dollars worth of property and securities. The underdeveloped counseizes foreign-held and foreign-developed properties.

"No one knows when, where or how the next blow will fall," says the First National City Bank of New York in its October letter out today.

"Nationalization of foreign assets, repudiation of debt and anti-foreign discriminations in various shapes and forms afford poor inducement for outside people to risk either their tax money or their private savings in areas that do not recognize a code of fair conduct in international financial relations. Who wants to throw good money after bad?"

On the question of whether nations really profit by seizing the property of others, the bank notes that "in general, the record shows—where nationalization has been tried—not more, but less, production has resulted." It cites two examples: the seizure of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. wells and the great Abadan refinery by Mosaddegh in 1951 in Iran, and the nationalization of the tin mines by Bolivia in 1952.

The next nationalization step most feared by American business at the moment involves the oil fields in the Arabian lands. But American business can take com-

New Producer Has Faith In the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—C. V. Whitney has leaped into the movie business with both feet. He entered it at a time when some persons despaired of its future. But not Whitney.

"I expressed my faith in the motion picture business when I got into it a year ago," he said in the Westwood office of his company. "I think the business looks even better now."

"I think in a normal year our picture, 'The Searchers,' would be up for Academy consideration. But there have been so many other good pictures this year that I don't believe we'll be in contention."

Whitney's active interest in the movies was delayed 25 years by a chain of circumstances, he explained. He first became intrigued with films through a friendship with Merian C. Cooper, with whom he is now associated.

"I first met Mr. Cooper in 1927, I believe," said Whitney. "I went with him to the premier of his 'Chang' in New York. But I was too busy organizing Pan-American World Airways to get into the picture business. Then I started the Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting Co., which is now the second biggest in Canada."

He was busy with those enterprises until the war. He enlisted the day after Pearl Harbor and didn't get out until 1945 (he was a colonel in Air Force Intelligence). After that, he was in government for two years, as assistant secretary of Air and undersecretary of Commerce. Plus which he was involved in other businesses such as stock raising, racing stable and marine studios in Florida.

Whitney, a ruggedly handsome man who chooses his words carefully between puffs on a pipe, said he and his cousin, John Hay Whitney, backed some of the first successful color pictures of the 1930s and invested in Technicolor.

"I got back into the picture business when Mr. Cooper induced me to come into the Cinerama operation," Whitney remarked. His luck in that venture may have helped spur him to start his own company.

No part-time producer is Whitney. He sits in and advises in all the production sessions and stayed on location through the long "Searchers" filming.

Highway Project Threatens—'Pastel Block' in Baltimore Wages Fight Against Dozers

BALTIMORE (AP)—The embattled homesteaders of Tyson Street, a unique block of pastel color and charm on the edge of downtown Baltimore, make their big fight today to save their homes from the bulldozer.

Baltimore planners and engineers, plotting an inner ring of express highways around the city's congested downtown section, have projected the northwest part of the road right through the one-block street.

Sometimes known as the "pastel block," Tyson Street is lined with old two-story brick row houses of colonial design. At the close of World War II, it was a crowded slum.

Then Edward Rosenfeld, a nationally known painter, bought one house and applied his artistic eye to a repainting and refinishing job that caught the eye of his friends. Others—professional people, designers, advertising writers—bought houses too. All devoted an extraordinary amount of time to repainting, refurbishing and repainting their homes, often in soft pastel greens, blues and pinks.

Tyson Street became a showplace and held an "open house"

Myers-Dobie Win Team-tag Tuesday Nite

Woody Strode Beats Alman; Dobie Lost to Hamilton

It was a rough night at the National Guard Armory Tuesday when the toughest of tough wrestlers climbed through the ropes in a team-tag match. It was eventually won by Sonny Myers of St. Joseph and Jim Dobie of Independence, over Joe Dusek, Omaha, Neb., and Larry Hamilton of St. Joseph.

Dusek won the first fall with a series of drop kicks on Myers and it took 14 minutes and 45 seconds to win the fall. Coming back in the second period Myers and Dobie roughed up Hamilton and Dusek with Myers finally using a series of flying drop kicks to put Dusek out on the floor and he won for his team in eight minutes and 15 seconds.

The third and final fall was won by Dobie and Hamilton after he applied his famous leg twist and Hamilton screamed "I give up." It took 11 minutes, 24 seconds for the fall.

The opening event brought Gentleman Jim Dobie of Independence and Larry Hamilton of St. Joseph together in a one fall event. This match went to Hamilton after Dobie was counted out after going through the ropes. It was a rough and tumble affair from the time the match started until it ended.

Dobie nearly had Hamilton down four different times but could only keep his shoulders tied to the mat for the three count. Dobie was tossed out of the ring by Hamilton. While he was still outside and standing along the edge of the ring, Dobie grabbed Hamilton and pulled him over and out on the floor. Hamilton roughed up Dobie and climbed back into the ring. Referee Jack Crawford counted Dobie out on the 20-count.

Time of the fall was 19 minutes and 20 seconds.

In the special event Frank Altman, Kansas City, and Woody Strode, Los Angeles, Calif., battled it out for 33 minutes with the event finally going by Strode.

The match brought the screams from the fans just as in the opening event, with Strode being the favorite from the start over the roughhouse kid from K. C.

Strode won the first fall when he kicked Altman in the chest as he was climbing back into the ring and Altman was making a rush for his opponent. The time of the fall was 18 minutes and 39 seconds.

Altman won the second fall in nine minutes and 17 seconds when he got a back-breaker on Strode, bouncing him up and down on his shoulder until Strode gave in. In the final period Altman went wild after hammering his opponent around and when the referee broke them, he took on Crawford. Crawford awarded the match to Strode, disqualifying Altman. The time was six minutes and 10 seconds.

There will be a wrestling match at the Armory on Tuesday night, Oct. 9, when Sonny Myers and Joe Dusek will clash for the Missouri State title.

A girl match between Joan Ballard, Chicago, and Lorraine Johnson, Minneapolis, Minn., will be the semi-feature.

The opening event is between Mario DeSouza, Minneapolis and Jack Donavant, Leesburg, Ala.

Still Looking for First Win--

Jayhawk Coaches See Possible Defeat of Colorado Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of Kansas still is looking for its first football victory of the season, but the Jayhawk coaches think the team may have improved enough in the past two weeks to turn the trick against Colorado Saturday.

Paul Shofer, an assistant to Kansas Coach Chuck Mather, told a dinner meeting in Kansas City last night that Mather is much encouraged by the Jayhawk showing in a 27-27 tie last Saturday with College of the Pacific.

Especially pleasing, said Shofer, was the 311 yards gained on the ground by Kansas and the play of the second unit in the last quarter, when the Jayhawks rallied for two touchdowns to tie the score.

This is the week for Big Seven members to make all the improvements they can. Saturday opens the scramble for the right to play in the 1957 Orange Bowl. Most if not all observers concede the conference championship to Oklahoma, but the Sooners played in the New Year's Day game last year and under conference rules they are ineligible for the next one.

So far, Kansas has been forced to rely on its running game almost exclusively, but Mather expects to offer a passing attack when the Jayhawks meet Colorado Saturday. Wally Strauch, the Big Seven's No. 2 passer last season, will return to action after sitting out the first two games with a knee injury.

At Boulder, the Buffs began hard drills for the game, their second conference contest of the year. Colorado whipped Kansas State last week. Coach Dal Ward reported his squad in good physical shape, with only reserve guard Howard West out of action with an injury.

Iowa State Coach Vince Difrancia promoted three second stringers to his first team, and moved up two other reserves to the second unit as the Cyclones got ready for Nebraska. The major change brought a pair of 6-4 ends, Brian Dennis and John Scheldrup, to the starting unit. Nebraska will be at full strength for Iowa State. Coach Pete Elliott said senior center Max Kittelman will be the only man to miss the game.

Minor injuries continued to plague Oklahoma, but the Sooners still should have enough strength to take full measure of Kansas State. K-State hasn't found the winning range in two outings, and four of its better players probably will miss the game with injuries.

At Missouri, Coach Don Faurot sought to bolster his pass defense for the Tigers' tough intersectional tangle with Southern Methodist Saturday. Faurot moved Glen St. Pierre, a stocky halfback, to No. 1 fullback and replaced him at half with Randall Stoner, who is taller. The idea is to take advantage of Stoner's height in defending against passes.

Thinks Spartans Will Beat Michigan in Very Close Game

NEW YORK (AP)—While studying these predicted winners of this weekend's football games, just remember that the forecaster is the same chap who picked Cincinnati to win the National League pennant.

Last week's lack of upsets lifted the season's total to 66 of 81 for .815.

This week's winners: Oklahoma over Kansas State: By as much as the Sooners want to make it.

Michigan State over Michigan: It will be close but the belief is the Spartans will take it, perhaps by only a point.

Ohio State over Stanford: Hop-along Cassidy is gone but the Ohio Staters supposedly are stronger than ever.

Mississippi over Houston: Mississippi has 24 of last year's Cotton Bowl champions.

Texas Christian over Arkansas: Jim Swink carries the Texas Horned Frogs to victory in full view of a nationwide TV audience.

Tennessee over Duke: Johnny Majors is rated the best running back in Dixie. He plays for Tennessee.

Southern California over Wisconsin: The Trojans give the Pacific Coast Conference a rare triumph over the Big Ten.

Pittsburgh over California: Joe Walton, Pitt end, one of the country's best.

Army over Penn State: Each team will rely on sophomores. The Cadets will have to do without Gene Mikelonis, speedy halfback. South Carolina over North Carolina: The South Carolina line makes the Gamecocks the favorites.

Baylor over Maryland: By the narrowest of margins.

UCLA over Oregon: Oregon had to hustle last week to beat Idaho by a single touchdown.

Skipping over the others: EAST: Navy over Cornell, Colgate over Holy Cross, Dartmouth over Penn, Princeton over Columbia, Yale over Brown, Harvard over Tufts.

SOUTH: Vanderbilt over Alabama, Auburn over Furman, Virginia Tech over Florida State, Florida over Kentucky, Georgia over Mississippi State, Virginia Military over Richmond, Wake Forest over Virginia, Clemson over North Carolina State, William & Mary over Boston University, The Citadel over Stetson.

MIDWEST: Iowa over Oregon State, Colorado over Kansas, Minnesota over Purdue, Southern Methodist over Missouri, Nebraska over Iowa State, Northwestern over Tulane, Notre Dame over Indiana, Tulsa over Marquette, Oklahoma A & M over Wichita.

SOUTHWEST: Rice over Louisiana State, Texas A & M over Texas Tech, West Virginia over Texas, Texas Western over New Mexico, Illinois over Washington, Utah over Brigham Young, Arizona over Utah State, Washington State over Idaho, College of Pacific over Cincinnati.

Honoring proficient women in a difficult field, Miss Jean Ross Howard, of Washington, founded a club which gathers together those of her sex licensed to fly helicopters.

The 'Whirly-Girls' Are Women Helicopter Pilots

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Can you drive a car without making men mad?

Are you able to pat your head and rub your tummy at the same time?

If so, ladies, you've got the two basic requirements for learning to fly a helicopter, according to Miss Jean Ross Howard, founder of one of the most exclusive women's organizations in the world.

They're women helicopter pilots in a club called Whirly-Girls. Only 8 of them belong.

To qualify, a gal has to have a helicopter rating certified by the Civil Aeronautics Administration or the foreign equivalent. And that's not so easy.

You have to be good enough to solo a helicopter and carry passengers according to tough CAA standards of international rigors.

"We're exclusive, but we don't want to stay that way," says Jean who is assistant to the director of the Helicopter Council of the Aircraft Industries Association.

She and the rest of the Whirly-Girls are trying to interest women in eggbeaters, and they don't mean the kitchen variety.

In the future they hope to establish scholarships to help other gals handle helicopters. The organization was started by 13 charter members on April 1, 1955.

"Women helicopter pilots can be extremely valuable as a reserve force for Civil Defense," says Jean.

"Anyone who is given the opportunity should be able to learn to fly a helicopter," she explains. But she adds that it does take a little coordination and previous experience with something mechanical.

That accounts for the head-tummy test and ability to drive a car.

It's a gross understatement to say that the present roster of Whirly-Girls is an unusual group of women.

For example, there's Mlle. Valerie Andre of Paris, a brain surgeon who won fame in Indochina.

She learned to fly a helicopter and then carried wounded back to hospital areas through Communist gunfire. In all, she flew 126 helicopter missions and picked up more than 165 wounded.

Other Whirly-Girls include: Elynor Rudnick of Bakersfield, Calif., who operates a fleet of eight helicopters that dust crops, prospect for oil and do stunt work for the movies, among other things.

Mrs. June Reynolds of Candor, North Carolina, who has a helicopter dust crop business with her husband, Jack. This 27-year-old dynamic redhead is a mother of three.

Ariene Davis of Cleveland, Ohio, newest member of the Whirly-Girls. She's a commercial pilot for single and multi-engine land and sea planes and a flight instructor.

Madame Jacqueline Auriol of France who recently was named one of the Harmon Award winners. She holds the title of the world's fastest woman pilot.

The presentation of the award to Mme. Auriol this fall may be the occasion for getting together many of the Whirly-Girls.

And when they do converge, it's something to hear. They don't hold a "meeting," by the way. When they gather it's a "hovering."

The Whirly-Girls do think helicopters could come in more appealing colors and have a few more comforts for ladies.

"But we're not feminists," cautions Jean Howard.

Newest member of the exclusive "Whirly-girls" organization is Ariene Davis of Cleveland, O.

Those fortunate enough to tune to "Alcoa Hour" (NBC-TV) Sunday evening saw what can happen when a writer of great talent turns all her powers to the creation of a television drama. The writer was Pearl S. Buck and her drama "The Big Wave."

The theme was of human security. It was dramatized around a wise old Japanese who lived in a castle between the menace of an active volcano and the menace of the sea. Excellent staging and acting combined to make affecting drama. Hume Cronyn was superb as the aged Japanese concerned with security.

"The Big Wave" was Mrs. Buck's first essay at writing television drama. One can only hope that she will return again.

Comes now another in the season's new slate of situation comedies — "Oh! Susanna" (CBS-TV, Saturday 9 p.m., EDT). This one stars Gale Storm as the social director aboard the liner S. S. Ocean Queen. It's a situation all right.

Miss Storm is an attractive and talented actress and singer. But whether you consider the weekly series in which she's cast to be a comedy is strictly a matter of what you think is funny.

This department disqualifies itself from passing judgments on water carnivals, aqua spectacles or what have you. It's a personal quirk, not an aversion. So maybe Esther Williams' "Aqua Spectacle" on NBC-TV Saturday evening was considered terrific entertainment. Just don't ask us, because we don't qualify.

A plastic panel is now being fitted into some umbrellas so you can have a reasonably clear view.

Jackie Gleason Back on TV In Live Show

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the happier events of the new television season is the return of Jackie Gleason—live and lively—with a full hour Saturday night show on CBS-TV.

Perhaps it was a good idea for Gleason to go to film for a year. To at least one viewer it makes his return to the live home screen the more pleasant by comparison. It's good to see Joe the Bartender, Reggie Van Gleason and the Poor Soul, old characters and friends who give Gleason the opportunity to display his great talents of acting, mimicry and pantomime.

The staging of this year's show has been enlarged, the choreography improved, and the Gleason girls look lovelier than ever. The total effect is first-rate entertainment.

George Prime Wins Health Traineeship

Award of a public health traineeship to George E. Prime, 206 South Gentry, was announced today by the Public Health Service, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The award will enable Prime, who is a sanitarian with the Missouri Division of Health to attend the University of Minnesota for a year of graduate training in public health.

Prime is one of 260 persons from all parts of the nation who will be awarded public health traineeships this year under the Health Amendments Act of 1956, signed by the President on Aug. 2. The new legislation is designed to help relieve the acute shortage of trained public health workers in state and local health departments. It provides stipends of from $2400 to $4800 for graduate training in public health to persons who have already received a professional education in medicine, nursing, engineering, and the many other specialties which are essential to the operation of modern health departments.

The word "fossil," an impression of an animal left from ancient ages, means "dug up."

Economy Arrest

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (P)—When it comes to being arrested a 41-year-old Converse man proves he's bargain-conscious.

Fred Phillips said he was telephoned recently by the man who reported himself drunk and asked that he be arrested by Phillips' county officers before city police picked him up.

The reason: The city fine for drunkenness usually is $12.75. The county charges only $10.

Ike Letter of 1908
Refers to Baseball
Game Without Ticket

ABILENE, Kan., (P)—There's a letter in the Eisenhower Museum here about getting into a baseball game without benefit of ticket.

Young Ike was on the 1908 Abilene High School baseball team. On Oct. 21 that year he wrote to Orin Snider, a former coach:

"We play Junction City Saturday. I want to see you there. I will run some bluff to get you in the game free."

K. C. Population Seen
509,000 by January 1

KANSAS CITY, (P)—City officials estimated to-day that Kansas City's population will go up to 509,000 come Jan. 1.

The city will annex a 16.19 square mile area along the east limits then as the result of an expansion voted in 1954. It is expected to add 14,000 to the population, now estimated at 495,000.

Kansas City has 456,622 in the official 1950 census. The figures do not include the 129,553 numbered in adjoining Kansas City, Kan., in 1905. Population of the metropolitan area was calculated then at 814,357.

Soviet Workers May Change Their Jobs

MOSCOW (P)—Workers in the Soviet Union may now change their jobs, or quit, on two weeks' notice but this freedom of action does not extend to members of the Communist party.

Party Life, monthly theoretical organ of the party's Central Committee, spelled out the distinction in its "letters to the editor" department.

The Soviet government earlier this year removed wartime labor restrictions forbidding a worker to change jobs without express approval of his employer.
